Information Analysis Incorporated Announces Acquisition of Tellenger, Inc.

FAIRFAX, VA / April 7, 2021 /

Information Analysis Incorporated (OTCQB: IAIC), an information technology modernization and services company, announced today it has acquired Tellenger, Inc., a provider of cybersecurity, cloud, and data analytics services, to support companies in protecting their cyber systems and infrastructure.

“The innovations from the talented team at Tellenger, Inc. will further accelerate our suite of cyber, cloud, and data analytics designed to help financial institutions, merchants and governments secure their digital assets,” explained Stan Reese, President and CEO of IAI. “Through a powerful combination of product and services, and data-driven advanced technology, Tellenger offers an exciting opportunity to complement our existing strategy and technology to expand into the cyber and cloud space.”

With Tellenger’s range of products and services, organizations can proactively manage cyber and cloud risks, better safeguarding critical intellectual property and preventing large-scale data breaches and ransomware attacks. In addition to IAI solutions, Tellenger, Inc. will continue to provide cyber security solutions across a broader set of industries, including healthcare, manufacturing, and government sectors.

“IAI stands out as a true innovator, focusing on the real problems of real businesses,” said Heather Tortorelli, CEO and co-founder of Tellenger, Inc. “By becoming part of IAI’s team, we have an opportunity to scale our solution and help companies in new industries to take steps to better manage their cybersecurity and cloud risk.”

Tellenger is expected to be accretive to IAI in revenue and earnings in its first year.
